Il libro delle foreste scolpite - Tiziano Fratus

2015-03-01T00:00:00+01:00

Ogni volta che un camminatore attraversa una foresta scolpita è come se inventasse un continente che non c'è. Il libro delle foreste scolpite è un viaggio nel tempo alla scoperta di sé scandagliando quei luoghi dove le conifere resistono alle avversità d'un ambiente estremo e d'una terra rocciosa, là dove il resto dei viventi ha smesso di sopravvivere. Lariceti, pinete e cembrete dispersi fra quota 1900 e 2200 lungo l'arco alpino, ma anche le cortecce contorte e scolpite dei pini loricati che abitano le creste del Massiccio del Pollino, fra Calabria e Basilicata. E, infine, i pini longevi o Bristlecone Pines sulle Montagne Bianche in California, fra quota 3000 e 3900 metri, gli esemplari più antichi del pianeta (oltre 5000 anni). Un viaggio in paesaggi lunari dove la vita cerca a suo modo la strada per l'eternità. Luoghi dove l'anima si riveste di radici, di sogni, d'immaginazione. L'Italia è un bosco - Tiziano Fratus 2016-02-04T00:00:00+01:00

Gli alberi delle nostre città: li sfioriamo, talvolta li tocchiamo, ma non li conosciamo. Nel bel libro di Tiziano Fratus si racconta del superlativo patrimonio naturale che abbiamo sotto gli occhi: anche le nostre città sono piccole oasi. Antonio Pascale, "Corriere della Sera" Il tronco a campana rovesciata, quindici metri alla base, di 600 anni, nel Parco dei Castagni secolari in Emilia Romagna; gli alberi delle specie esotiche, come il Ficus macrophylla australiano di piazza Marina a Palermo, messo a dimora nel 1863; oppure le sequoie imponenti del Parco Burcina, a Pollone presso Biella, piantate per celebrare lo Statuto Albertino... Sono presenze preziose quelle che incontriamo inoltrandoci per i più sperduti sentieri, negli angoli inattesi dei parchi, nelle ville e negli orti botanici delle nostre città guidati da Tiziano Fratus. Andrea Di Salvo, "Alias" Tiziano Fratus da anni racconta con passione gli alberi, in Italia e in giro per il mondo. L'Italia è un bosco è uno scrigno di meraviglie e di memorie ancestrali. Darwin Pastorin, "L'Huffington Post"

Nature and Madness - Paul Shepard 2011-07-01

Through much of history our relationship with the earth has been plagued by ambivalence--we not only enjoy and appreciate the forces and manifestations of nature, we seek to plunder, alter, and control them. Here Paul Shepard uncovers the cultural roots of our ecological crisis and proposes ways to repair broken bonds with the earth, our past, and nature. Ultimately encouraging, he notes, "There is a secret person undamaged in every individual. We have not lost, and cannot lose, the genuine impulse."

Ecodharma - David Loy 2019-01-29

How can we respond urgently and effectively to the ecological crisis—and stay sane doing it? This landmark work is simultaneously a manifesto, a blueprint, a call to action, and a deep comfort for troubling times. David R. Loy masterfully lays out the principles and perspectives of Ecodharma—a Buddhist response to our ecological predicament, introducing a new term for a new development of the Buddhist tradition. This book emphasizes the three aspects of Ecodharma: practicing in the natural world, exploring the ecological implications of Buddhist teachings, and embodying that understanding in the eco-activism that is needed today. Within these pages, you'll discover the powerful ways Buddhism can inspire us to heal the world we share. Offering a compelling framework and practical spiritual resources, Loy outlines the Ecosattva Path, a path of liberation and salvation for all beings and the world itself.

Plant Genetic Conservation - Nigel Maxted 2013-12-01

The recent development of ideas on biodiversity conservation was already being considered almost three-quarters of a century ago for crop plants and the wild species related to them, by the Russian geneticist N.I. Vavilov. He was undoubtedly the first scientist to understand the importance for humankind of conserving for utilization the genetic diversity of our ancient crop plants and their wild relatives from their centres of diversity. His collections showed various traits of adaptation to environmental extremes and biotypes of crop diseases and pests which were unknown to most plant breeders in the first quarter of the twentieth century. Later, in the 1940s-1960s scientists began to realize that the pool of genetic diversity known to Vavilov and his colleagues was beginning to disappear. Through the replacement of the old, primitive and highly diverse land races by uniform modern varieties created by plant breeders, the crop gene pool was being eroded. The genetic diversity of wild species was equally being threatened by human activities: over-exploitation, habitat destruction or fragmentation, competition resulting from the introduction of alien species or varieties, changes and intensification of land use, environmental pollution and possible climate change.

The World According to Bertie - Alexander McCall Smith 2010-05-14
44 SCOTLAND STREET - Book 4 The residents and neighbors of 44 Scotland Street and the city of Edinburgh come to vivid life in these gently satirical, wonderfully perceptive serial novels, featuring six-year-old Bertie, a remarkably precocious boy—just ask his mother. There is never a quiet moment on 44 Scotland Street. In The World According to Bertie, Pat deals with the reappearance of Bruce, which has her heart skipping—and not in a pleasant way. Angus Lordie's dog Cyril has been taken away by the authorities, accused of being a serial biter.

Unexpectedly, Domenica has offered to help free him. As usual, Big Lou is still looking for love, and handing out coffee and advice to the always contemplative Matthew. And Bertie, the beleaguered Italian-speaking six year old prodigy, now has a little brother, Ulysses, who Bertie hopes will help distract his pushy mother Irene. Beautifully observed, cleverly detailed, The World According to Bertie is classic McCall Smith and a treat for his avid fans as well as his first time readers.

Fear in the World - Corrado Alvaro 2021-03-23

Corrado Alvaro's Fear in the World was published a decade before Orwell's 1984, but is not well known outside Italy, perhaps because of the timing of the publication just before the Second World War. Alvaro had visited the Soviet Union as a journalist, but was probably motivated to write this dystopian novel by aspects of modernity that concerned him, particularly the use of fear for political purposes which was not afflicting Russia alone. He was interested in the psychology of fear and the extent to which individuals and the crowd participate in their own regimentation. The names of countries, cities and leading political figures such as Stalin are never referred to, but as in the works of Orwell they are clearly identifiable from their descriptions: the author was writing in a Fascist country against a Fascist censor and had to cut his cloth accordingly. This is a dark novel, not quite as dark as 1984, but it is more claustrophobic. The feeling of inevitability is there from the first page, and it is experienced as we experience real life. The imagined truth takes us closer to where we really are. The travails of the love affair at the core of this novel quite possibly arise from perceptions that the regime exploits in a quite ad hoc manner. And it leads the reader through an extraordinary sequence of events and observations which encompass a vast range of emotions and ideas expressed in a unique prose style. The modern Leviathan appears to be a well-oiled machine, but towards the end it becomes clear that this is merely an appearance of efficiency and omniscience, but appearances can be powerful. Alvaro is particularly interested in how the state uses quasireligious mechanisms and rituals to assert its power. The central character returns to the country after a long period abroad, and sees things initially through foreign eyes, living a life similar to the one Alvaro did when in Russia. He is not a natural rebel, and very much wants to fit in, but he finds this difficult to achieve. The regime boasts that it has an ally in history, but destiny is elusive, however much the characters feel that they are driven by it.

The Institute - Stephen King 2019-09-10

From #1 New York Times bestselling author Stephen King whose “storytelling transcends genre” (Newsday) comes “another winner: creepy and touching and horrifyingly believable” (The Boston Globe) about a group of kids confronting evil. In the middle of the night, in a house on a quiet street in suburban Minneapolis, intruders silently murder Luke Ellis’s parents and load him into a black SUV. The operation takes less than two minutes. Luke will wake up at The Institute, in a room that looks just like his own, except there’s no window. And outside his door are other doors, behind which are other kids with special talents—telekinesis and telepathy—who got to this place the same way Luke did: Kalisha, Nick, George, Iris, and ten-year-old Avery Dixon. They are all in Front Half. Others, Luke learns, graduated to Back Half, “like the roach motel,” Kalisha says. “You check in, but you don’t check out.” In this most sinister of institutions, the director, Mrs. Sigsby, and her staff are ruthlessly dedicated to extracting from these children the force of their extranormal gifts. There are no scruples here. If you go along, you get tokens for the vending machines. If you don’t, punishment is brutal. As each new victim disappears to Back Half, Luke becomes more and more desperate to get out and get help. But no one has ever escaped from the Institute. As psychically terrifying as Firestarter, and with the spectacular kid power of It, The Institute is “first-rate entertainment that has something important to say. We all need to listen” (The Washington Post).

Dying to Know You - Aidan Chambers 2012-04-23

A teenager discovers his voice in this contemporary love story from “one of young adult literature’s greatest living writers” (Booklist). Shy teenager Karl is desperately in love with his girlfriend, Fiorella, a literary enthusiast who’s asked him to write her a letter in which he reveals his true self. There’s just one problem . . . Karl is dyslexic. Convinced that his attempts to express himself with words will end in disaster, Karl tracks down Fiorella’s favorite novelist and begs him to take up the task. The famous writer unexpectedly agrees, but on one condition: Karl must participate in a series of interviews so the author can pen an authentic portrait of his affections. What follows is a series of misunderstandings, a startling revelation, and an unusual bond that will change all three of their lives. A moving story of love and friendship, Dying to Know You is the perfect novel for “that cloudy expanse between older teenager and younger adult, a novel that doesn’t pretend to advise, but merely sees its characters for who they really are” (The Guardian). “This quietly understated performance captures the wistfulness of music in a minor key.” —Kirkus Reviews

The Trials of Rumpole - John Mortimer 2021-03-25

'I thank heaven for small mercies. The first of these is Rumpole' Clive James Horace Rumpole, the irrepressible barrister fuelled by cigars, Tennyson, steak-and-kidney pud and the cooking claret from Pommeroy's wine bar, is back for further misadventures. Amid an unfortunate and temporary downturn in London crime, the Old Bailey Hack sits in Chambers (he never writes at home for fear of She Who Must Be Obeyed) and picks up his pen to recount six classic tales of his recent trials. Here he deals with, among others, a clergyman on a shoplifting rampage, a backstage theatrical murder, a villain with unfortunate sartorial taste and, worst of all, the possibility that he may have to hang up his wig and retire. Ombre sul Naviglio - Rosa Teruzzi 2022-04-28T00:00:00+02:00

Sul finire dell'estate più piovosa di sempre, un terzetto di rapinatori mascherati minaccia Milano e la Riviera romagnola. La polizia non riesce a venirne a capo: perché i tre indossano vistosi costumi ispirati ai personaggi delle favole? Perché il Gatto con gli Stivali, la Fata Turchina e Zorro prendono di mira modesti studi professionali, bar scalcinati e perfino un circolo ricreativo per pensionati? Il caso dà filo da torcere anche alle Miss Marple del Giambellino, e per Libera diventa una preziosa distrazione: ha appena saputo che Gabriele, l'uomo che ama da sempre, sta per sposarsi. La fioraia milanese avrà il coraggio di affrontare gli ostacoli che intralciano la loro relazione? O per lei è arrivato il momento di rinunciare al commissario e di aprirsi a un dolce e assiduo corteggiatore? Con il procedere dell'indagine, ai tormenti del suo cuore si aggiunge un'inaspettata, sconvolgente rivelazione. Perché la maschera di uno dei banditi nasconde un segreto che la riguarda da vicino...

Italy and the Environmental Humanities - Serenella Iovino 2018-03-27

Bringing together new writing by some of the field's most compelling voices from the United States and Europe, this is the first book to examine Italy--as a territory of both matter and imagination--through the lens of the environmental humanities. The contributors offer a wide spectrum of approaches--including ecocriticism, film studies, environmental history and sociology, eco-art, and animal and landscape studies--to move past cliché and reimagine Italy as a hybrid, plural, eloquent place. Among the topics investigated are post-seismic rubble and the stratifying geosocial layers of the Anthropocene, the landscape connections in the work of writers such as Calvino and Buzzati, the contaminated fields of the ecomafia's trafficking, Slow Food's gastronomy of liberation, poetic birds and historic forests, resident parasites, and nonhuman creatures. At a time when the tension between the local and the global requires that we reconsider our multiple roots and porous place-identities, Italy and the Environmental Humanities builds a creative critical discourse and offers a series of new voices that will enrich not just nationally oriented discussions, but the entire debate on environmental culture. Camminare l'antifascismo - Lorenzo Guadagnucci 2022-04-04

Un piccolo gruppo di donne, uomini e ragazzi partecipa a una Camminata per la pace da Monte Sole a Sant'Anna di Stazzema, luoghi della Resistenza e delle stragi di civili fra le più feroci del periodo della guerra di Liberazione. Fra silenzi, riflessioni, ricordi e fortissime emozioni, prende via via corpo la domanda cruciale che ciascuna e ciascuno si porta dentro: «Che cosa significa - oggi - dichiararsi antifascisti?». Le risposte sono difficili, sofferte e per nulla scontate, ma alla fine convergono: impegnarsi con i fatti nella costruzione di un mondo liberato dagli orrori del Novecento, che ancora incombono, magari con altre forme, ma che fingiamo di non vedere. Il nazionalismo, i fascismi, l'odio razziale, le discriminazioni, il genocidio dei migranti, le guerre. Soprattutto le guerre, quelle ingiuste e quelle giuste, che non esistono; quelle presenti e quelle che minacciamo di fare; quelle degli altri e le nostre. Questa è la lezione che le persone uccise su quelle montagne ci chiedono di ascoltare. «L'antifascismo è di chi lo pratica e l'antifascismo è rivoluzione, è lotta contro l'ingiustizia, per l'uguaglianza, per la dignità della persona».
